CM launches digital course material for more than 1 lakh I.T.I students

Gandhinagar, Wednesday: Taking into consideration the situation arising due to the Novel Corona Virus, Chief Minister of the state Mr. Vijay Rupani launched online course material for more than 1 lakh students engaged in professional courses at I.T.I.

The course has been prepared by more than 700 supervisors and instructors of I.T.Is and stretches for more than 2000 hours. It consists of course material of more than 12 trades. More than 10 thousand MCQs have also been uploaded for the students in order to ensure exam related preparations. All this has been made available on www.talimrojgar.gujarat.gov.in.

The online course material consists of various trades such as wiremen, basic cosmetology, computer operator cum programming assistant, fitter, electricians, machinist, electronics mechanic, diesel mechanic, sewing technology, attendant operator cum programming assistant, mechanic refrigeration and air-conditioner etc.

The Chief Minister launched three books related to fitter and turner trade translated in Gujarati. The books are generally prepared in Hindi and English by National Instructional Media Institute (NIMI), a Government of India organisation located in Chennai. The books will be available online and benefit more than 30,000 students.

In addition to the same, the Chief Minister also launched a four-month course which encompasses a basic outline for supervising the study material.