National Training Workshop on Disaster Risk Reduction and Mainstreaming into Development Process for Joint Secretaries / Directors of Central/State Governments

(11-12, November, 2013)

Government of India has enacted the Disaster Management Act in 2005 and released its National Policy on Disaster Management in 2009, to establish a well defined framework for planning and implementing disaster management activities and mainstreaming DRR in Sectoral Plans. It is a statutory requirement for each ministry/ department and agencies of central and state government to draw a disaster management plan and schemes, covering all aspects of mitigation, response and capacity building. Keeping the need in view NIDM organised a special National Training Workshop for Joint Secretaries and Director level officers from Central Ministries/ State Governments on "Disaster Risk Reduction and Mainstreaming into Development Process" during 11-12 November, 2013 at New Delhi.

The key objectives of the course were

1. To sensitize and orient the delegates on implications of disasters on development and sustainability facets.
2. To discuss the need, approaches, tools and strategies for mainstreaming DRR into developmental planning - programmes/actions of NRM/environment sectors, infrastructure planning, social welfare, economic and industrial developments
3. To acquaint with the objectives, scope and ways of integrating DRR and DM functions (mitigation, preparedness, capacity building) into various programmes/schemes and actions across sectors.

Inaugural session was presided by Shri V.K. Duggal Hon'ble Member of NDMA, and keynote was delivered by Shri Anil Sinha, Vice-chairman of Bihar State Disaster Management Authority. Secretary of NDMA Dr. Shyam S. Agarwal chaired the Valedictory Session. A special panel discussion was chaired by Dr B. N. Satapathy, Senior Advisor at Planning Commission, wherein the delegates presented their group work recommendations on mainstreaming strategies for four sector clusters, viz. (a) Environment and Natural resource sector, (b) Social welfare programmes (c) Infrastructure sectors and (d)
