Background

National Institute of Disaster Management (NIDM), New Delhi and Centre for Disaster Management, YASHADA, Pune successfully organized a Three Days “Training Programme on Mainstreaming of Disaster Management in Rural Development” from 25 to 27 November 2020 from 11.00 am to 01.00 pm. Ms. Sushma Guleria, Assistant Professor, NIDM and Col V N Supanekar (Retd.), Director & Professor, CDM, YASHADA, Pune were programme coordinators.

Tackling the underlying risk factors in the natural and built environments and in the social and economic conditions of people remains one the most difficult tasks of disaster risk management (DRM). The strategic approach to this challenge has been broadly described under the genre “mainstreaming disaster risk reduction in development”. This approach has been emphasized in various global, regional, and national frameworks on DRM, but there has been little progress. Reports from national governments and regional organizations, biennial global assessment reports on disaster risk reduction (DRR) and independent assessments of civil society organizations have all pointed out that mainstreaming DRR across sectors of development has been the most difficult, slow and challenging of all DRR tasks.

Inaugural Session

Ms. Sushma Guleria, Assistant Professor, NIDM, gave opening remarks of the training programme. She correlated importance of 29 subjects in 73rd amendment and its relation to DRR in rural sector. This will provide leverage to Gram Panchayats for more sustainable development. It is therefore essential for all departments of rural sectors to be aware of DRR concept and its integration in the planning parameters to make any scheme / project sustainable. She highlighted the role of facilitators who will be working with community in development of plan with focus on development of Village Level Disaster Management Plan which should emphasis on all inclusive approach and concentrating on risk assessment and mitigation actions at various levels to include individual, family, society village for prevention and mitigation and preparedness.

Smt. Ashwini Nyaharkar, Social Worker, Nashik She narrated her experience while working in social field in the rural sector. The women participation though improved in overall rural management, however their inclusiveness in decision making is still lacking. She explained the inherent qualities a lady possesses and hence for their inclusion in Disaster Management. She also narrated certain success stories of women empowerment in Maharashtra.

Smt. Ujjwala Bankhele, District Superintendent Agriculture Officer, Alibag continuing with the deliberation on climate change, the specific impact on agriculture and its mitigation measures were explained in great detail, she also appraised various schemes and projects of Government of India and State Government which will help farmers in recovery process from agricultural losses. She also touched upon the risk transfer initiatives undertaken by government authorities which needs to be disseminated at grass root level.

Ms. Naman Gupta, Climate Change Advisor, Environment Department, GoM Explained the climate change impact on various sectors with special reference to Maharashtra. She explained the anticipated impact in 2030 and gave what mitigation and adaptive measure need to be implemented in all sectors.

Mr. Anand Pusavale, Director, Water Literacy Center, YASHADA, Pune during his presentation he focused on the issue of water literacy among community as sustainable development is possible only when we focus on “Jal-Jamin-Jungle-Janawar&Jan”

With the climate change extreme weather conditions are experienced and for that focus on climate change adaptation also need to be taken care of. He then gave some case studies on water conservation and explained way ahead to face on coming water disaster.

Prof. Shailaja Deshpande, Jeevitnadi Foundation, during her delivery she highlighted how the river area getting extinct due to pollution, extraction and encroachment and need to protect overall environment for rivers to survive which include nutrients organic matter, flora fauna and other factors. While explaining the various stages of river formation and to protect t the need to achieve ecological and environmental balance throughout its course. She emphasized on the need of laws and regulation on river protection and instilling among community of all ages the need of it for survival and growth. She also suggested mitigation measures which needs to be instituted from common man to the governing bodies.

Mr. Ravindra Sabnis, Tahasildar, Walwa, Sangli, shared with the participants his personal experiences during varius disasters and highlighted measures taken by him to overcome the same. He highlighted that the training of development of Disaster Management Plan helped him to prepare a logical response to any situation in rural areas and need for participatory approach in Disaster Management which helps in community accepting the ownership and respond to authorities directives in a more responsive manner. He narrated the experience of Sangli floods and thereafter.

Professor (Dr.) Anil Kumar Gupta HoD, ECDRM, NIDM, He mentioned that Maharashtra is a multi-hazard state and though Maharashtra urbanization is on increase rural economy plays a very significant role and hence there is need to ensure sustainable development in the rural sector and for that this training will mainly focus on practical issues in rural sector and discuss case studies during the training programme. He also appreciated the effort taken by YASHADA team in developing the training programme and he expected an interactive training session.

About the Course

India, due to its physiographic and climatic conditions is one of the most disaster prone areas of the world. Disaster management, at the individual and organizational level, deals with issues of planning, coordinating, communication and risk management. The institutional arrangement for disaster management provided by the Disaster Management Act, 2005 has provided constitutional sanction to prepare the disaster management plan at Gram Panachayat level to be consolidated at block and district level by the District Planning Committee (Article 243ZD of the Constitution). The Panchayati Raj Institution (PRI) members can play a vital role of leadership in Disaster management at all stages. Their close involvement will facilitate in preparation of community based disaster management plans to achieve disaster risk reduction. Development of Village Disaster Management Plan (VDMP) is the most important ingredient in implementing Community Based Disaster Risk Management in any area. The programme seeks to develop para professionals and community skills in preparation of Disaster Management Plan.

Objectives:

- To sensitize the participants on Disaster Management (DM) Act 2005
- To familiarize the participants with concepts, components and preparation of DM Plan and Village DM Plan
- To discuss the components of DM Plans tools and techniques of PRA and its role in preparing the situation analysis.
- To orient the participants to integrate Disaster management plan with Gram Panchayat Development Plan
- Exposure of participants to the roles and responsibilities of various stakeholders in integration of DM & GPDP

Contents:

- ❖ Basic Concepts of Disaster Management- Paradigm shift in DM to DRR ; Sandai Framework
- ❖ Hazard, Risk, Vulnerability & Capacity (HRVC) Analysis
- ❖ Disaster Management Plan – 2005, Components and planning steps
- ❖ Operational Guidelines on preparation of DM Plan and VDMP,
- ❖ Importance of PRA tools in integrating DM Plan with GPDP,
- ❖ Preparation of GPDP – its components, situation analysis and resource envelop, Role of PRI in DMP
- ❖ Role of Stakeholders in preparation of integrated planning.

Clientele:

Senior and middle level functionaries from State Disaster Management Authority (SDMA), District Disaster Management Authority (DDMA), line departments including Officials from Rural Development and Panchayati Raj, Agriculture, Animal Husbandry, Horticulture, Faculty SIRD, ETC CEOs of ZPs, PRIs, CBOs dealing with the subjects related to disaster management concern, Academicians and Post Graduate students.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

Few challenges identified in building capacities for DRr integration into GPDP are:

1. Insufficient understanding/appreciation of DRR-specific Capacity Development needs
 2. Lack of access to or existence of facilities, programmes, or resources to support awareness
 3. Failing to provide support for or access to enhance local capacities for DRR
 4. Inadequate and insufficient availability of resources
 5. Lack of general awareness and knowledge of risk drivers and the stakeholders' DRR roles (including at the local level) and;
 6. A lack of understanding of existing legal instruments
- Need to develop people centric planning for ease of living
 - Roles of various stakeholder must be clearly identified for integrating disaster management plans into gram Panchayat development plan:
 - Convergence of SDGs and Sendai Framework becomes imperative to achieve DRR at the GP level
 - Multi stakeholder engagement is a prime necessity for developing such integrated plans
 - Documentation of success stories of local self governance systems is essential
 - Train and build capacities of Panchayat level functionaries in order to smoothly facilitate DM and DRR integration into the GPDP plans
